Affairs in Washington. INTERESTING TO TEXAS CREDITORS—ITEMS ABOUT GENERAL PIERCE AND HIS CABINET, ETC. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE NEW YORK HERALD

It is intended to call up, on Monday, in the Senate, the bill for the relief of the Texas creditors. It is hoped-as the friends of the bill have already given way to Mr. Gwin's Pacific railroad measure on several occasions— that no opposition will be offered by that gentleman to calling up the Texas bill now. A proper harmony will thus be preserved on all sides. Mr. Pearce will deliver an interesting speech on the subject, and show that all the creditors ask is that the United States shall now pay them the same amount, which will accumulate as interest on the five millions now in the Treasury, to the credit of the bondholders, if that interest be let run for ten years, which it must do if the bondholders see fit to hold out. As we have a surplus on hand, and do not want to use the money, and thus pay interest upon it, there is an additional argument in favor of justice being done the creditors, and the claim thus forever put at rest.

The cabinet rumor about Mr. Buchanan probably arese from the fact that that gentleman has been using, it is said, every exertion to press the pretensions of Judge Campbell, of Pennsylvania, for a cabinet appointment. Mr. Forney, and other original friends of Mr. Buchanan, are indiguant at this preference for a new

The oraculous givings out of the Concord letter writers, are a good deal laughed at here. The last idea from there, is that General Pierce will not seek advice of any one in Washington as to his cabinet. Of course General Pierce is not responsible for such nonsense, for he is aware that some of the most distinguished Presidents have had to materially change their views as to their cabinet after arriving here, although it was all out

It has been stated, in various quarters, that in case any number of democratic Senators should be discontented a would gladly unite with them in rejecting such obnoxious individuals. To all this, it need only be said the whigh intend doing no such thing; but have determined to vote for all nominations sent in, so long as the individuals are of proper moral character. Disorganizers will, therefore have to look elsewhere for comfort. X. Y. Z.

The broadway and pacific railedad movements
—the filots—the savings banks—the conviction of beed, etc.

There was no opposition to the resolution this morning, chair, appointed Messrs Bartlett, Babcock and Taber such e. The former was opposed to the restriction bill, and the two latter very strongly in favor of it. Now the people will know whether all this tempest has only been a "tempest in a teapot" or in a "tea room."

Mr. Cooley's resolution, and which was adopted, making Tuesday next the special day for the consideration of the Savings Banks bill, has an ominous significancy, inas. much as that day was previously set apart for executive business in secret session.

The Pacific Railroad bill was taken up and a whole batch of new corporators' names were in it. Several Senators who were first opposed to it signified their permit, was adopted, and should not be aba take the initiative and lay the corner stone which is soon to be built upon. I now think it will pass the Legislature in season, for action in Congress, before the 4th of March.

The conviction of Reed, the negro, one of the Jerry res-

CONVICTION OF ENOCH REED, ETC.

In the United States Circuit, the jury in the case of Enoch Reed were last evening charged by Judge Hall, and on the opening of the Court, at a quarter to nine o'clock this morning, the jury had not yet agreed. At Mr. Wheaton suggested to the Court, that it would not e advisable to empanel a jury to-day, unless the testiwas commenced. Court stated that there were but about eight

The Court stated that there were but about eight names in the box.

The question occurred as to whether additional names for the panel should be drawn from the box or summoned by the Marshal.

The counsel for the defence desired to have them drawn from the jury box.

The counsel for the government wished to have them selected by the Marshal.

Mr. Sedgwick left the court to examine authorities in reference to the practice in this State.

At half past 9, the Judge said none of them had had much opportunities for rest during the week, and he had not had much for some time, and he was inclined to adopt the unggestion, to do nothing more till Monday.

Whereupon, the poilt jurors were discharged till 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

The District Attorney gave notice that the next case would be William L. Salmon, (white.). [Mr. Salmon is a farmer, of Granby, Oswego county—three miles west of Fulton.]

At half-past 10 o'clock, the jury in the case of Read would be William I. Schnon, (white.) [Mr. Samon is a farmer, of Granby, Oswego county—three miles west of Fulion.]

At half-past 10 o'clock, the jury in the case of Reed came in, and were called.
The Clerk inquired if the jury had agreed?
The Foreman said they had not. There was a disagreement as to the evidence of the witness Hackerman.
The Judge read his minutes of Hackerman's testimony.
The Foreman of the Jury requested the Court to remain for ten minutes, when the jury retired.
The Court cautioned the audience against any demonstration of approbation or disapprobation.
In about ten minutes the jury returned, when they were called by the Clerk, and asked if they had agreed on their verdict?

redict?
The Foreman said they had.
Clerk—Do you find guilty, or not guilty?
Foreman—Guilty.
At the request of Mr. Hillia, the Jury was polled, and such answered for himsoff, "Guilty."
Mr. Hillis gave notice that he would move an arrest of advanced.

The jury were then discharged till Monday morning, at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Hillis asked that Reed be not committed.

The Court required good bail in $2,600 for Reed's appearance in Court from day to day.

James Davis and Moses Summers—the original bail of Reed—were taken as the new ball, in the sum of $2,000.

Whereupon the Court adjourned.

PENCLUSE FOR THE REPERSENTATIVES OF DECLASED OFFICERS

AND SOLDHESS.

The House concurred in the following report of a committee of conference on certain disagreeing votes of the two houses—that the act approved 22d February, 1810. granting privileges to certain willows and orphans of officers, non-commissioned-officers, musicians, and privates, both regular and rolunteer, be so extended and construed as to embrace the wildows and minor heirs of the officers, non-commissioned efficers, and privates of the regulars and volunteers of the war of 1812, and of the various Indian wars of 1709.

Mr. McNain, (dem.) of Pa., moved that the select committee heatforce appointed to examine the foundation of the Capitol extension, be re-appointed.

SELECT COMMITTEE, 170.

The Spianess decided that all the select committees had ceased to exist at the expiration of last session.

Mr. Cooler moved to make the bill relative to Saving Banks the special order for Tuesday next, at half past 11 Mr. Pinken, (dem.) hoped this would not be done. It was evidently intended to trench upon an executive session, when brought up last Tuesday.

Mr. Coolar repelled the insignation. This bill was not up at all last Tuesday. But he wanted to know if this up at all fast ruesday. But he wanted to know if this was not more important than the appointment of a few harbor masters in New York? He hoped the resolution would be adopted for Tuesday.

Mr. Wassur assured the gentleman that all the offices in the disposal of the Executive were filled by honorable and efficient men, and the public interests would not suffer if there was not an Executive session held this year.

Mr. Lirect's motion to amend, was lost by 9 to 16; and Mr. Cooley's motion to postpone was then carried by a your of 17 to 10.

Assembly. ALBANT, Jan. 29, 1868.

THE NEW YORK PILOTS. Mr. D. P. Taylor reported a bill to regulate and Eccase the pilots of New York. ANOTHER DEBATE ON THE CANAL QUESTION.

Mr. INGALIA, (dem.) of Washington, resumed his remarks. The policy of the democratic party had always been to carry forward the public works as rapidly as could be judiciously and safely done. In 1855 the plan of completing our canals as rapidly as the revenues would denaged, and the whig party came into power. Their policy was to create a debt for the enlargement of the canals. In four or five years the stocks of the State were reduced to 72 per cent. The ascendancy of the democracy was restored. They found the currejes of the State paralyses, and the only remedy was the stop policy and the null tax, which refleved the State from its embarrassment. The versici of the people sustained the democratic party. They will not sustain a debt policy. John Randolph said he had discovered the philosopher's stone—it was 'Pay as you go.'' This is the only safe policy for a government. When the nine million loan was made, the judiciary of the State nobly pronounced it unconstitutional, and the people have triumphantly sustained that decision. This should be a lesson to those who desired to override the constitution. Mr. I. was not the apologist of Gov. Seymour—he needs no defender. There is no proof of the charge of duplicity against that gentionan. The best evidence of a man's reputation at home is the vote of those who know him, and Gov. Seymour's majority is mostly found in the counties where he is most intimately known. His message is entirely acceptable to the people. It is not dictatorial; it is modest and clear, giving us facts and data, presenting fully and distincily the condition of our public works. He had recommended the completion of the enlargement as soon as in can be safely done. He shows us what has been accomplished, and how a future improvement may be successfully made. He presents us three specific propositions—a tax, a loan, or an amendment to the constitution—and learns it with the Lagishature to decide between them. Mr. I. believed the expenditure of a million a year would complete the canals in eight years, and that the capacity of boats could be gradually increased during this time. The democratic party were willing to adopt any policy of carrying on the public works within the limits of the constitution and of security. But we must have a policy, safe against i which always attend extravagance. Mr. I. defended the recommendation that economy of labor and provisions should be duly considered in the enlargement. It is not when labor is high and there is work enough for all, that men need employment on our canals—it is when labor is low, that the poor would be benefitted by an impetus given to the culargement. Mr. I. hoped there would be no factions opposition in the House; that all would condially and honeatly unite in endeavoring to frame a safe and efficient canal policy.

Mr. Harmson, (whig) of Monroe, thought the discussion had taken too wide a range. Neither the conduct of the flovernor during the campaign nor the acts of our predecessors were under consideration. The question is simply one in regard to the reference of the Governor's measure. He had heard some things in this debate from both parties that gave him pleasure, and much that pained him. He always regretted to have the motives of any branch of the government brought into question. The Governor has the duty of making recommendations to the Legislature—but he is responsible, not to us, but to the people, for its honest discharge. Mr. H. did not now intend to discuss the merits of the measage. Some things in fit meet his approval—others he could not sustain. He believed the Joint resolutions sent down to us by the Senste were proposed by that body in entire good fatth. He so understood it.

Mr. CLOPP, (whig) of Erie, said the debate had certainly taken a wide range and been long continued, but the interest of his constituents justified him in making a few remarks upon it. He regretted the personalities that had been uttered upon this floor. He would allude to some things that have been said on this question—other things he should not attempt to reply to, for he had no ambition to age the example of Don Quixotie, and run a till against wind mills. He desired that the public interests should be the only motive of our actions here and a made in a proposed the canals. This great channel of commerce was me if f was defeated by a political court. This public inservement is the life, and heart, and soul of our prosperity. Yet the present State authorities are eager to obstruct the enlargement. The Governor has failed to make any recommendations to carry on the completion of the canals. He has failed to discharge his duty in this respect, or it is his belief that there should be no enlargement. There it no bold, distinct, and manly auggestion made by the message. Its language is equivocal, and liable to a double construction. Mr. C. believed the iont re-obtion of the Senate would have facilitated a plan for the calargement, and on that account he thought these resolutions were defeated. He concluded by saying that the minority since rely desired the majority to bring forward a feasible plan for the calargement; and should this be done, he pleiged the cordial support of the whigs to that measure. Mr. Hesper, (whig) of Livingston, moved the previous queriton.

Mr. O'Kmarn, (dem.) of N. Y., desired to know if there as a quorum present.

The question before the House was, whether the Governor's message should be referred to the various committees, as moved by Mr. Loomis, and was carried.

On motion, the House adjourned.

DEEADTUL CALAMITY—TWENTY LIVES LOST.—
We learn from a rehable source, says the New Madrid Journal of the 15th, that four coal boats were sunk at Merriwether's bend, one day last week, and out of twenty-one men, who composed the crews, only one man escaped. The survivor states that there was a high wind blowing at the time, and while rounding the bend the waves ran over the side of the boats, causing them to slok immediately. We did not learn where the boats belonged.—Louisville

There is no news of importance. The most interesting feature is the arrival of a party of Jesuits from Ecuador, whence they had been expelled. The Panama Star of the whence they had been expelled. The Panama Skar of the 8th inst., says:—

On Tuesday last, the Ecuadorian national vessel, Hermosa Carmen, arrived here from Guayaquil, with a oargo of thirty-two Jesuits, who had been expelled by the Ecuadorian government. We are told that they were consigned to the Governor of Panama, with the request that he would put them through the Isthmus and out of the country, with all commendable care and speed. On their arrival, says common rumor, they were informed officially that they could land, but would be subjected to police surveillance during their stay here, which was limited to a day. They returned suswer that they had no resistance to make to the law, but if the Governor wished them to land as prisoners, he would have to send off and the thom, or put there under guard. The latter was done, and they were lended at the northern gets, under a guard of solliers and police, who then conducted them to the Cabillo or City Bull, where their appearance created some excitement among some of our population. At a later hour in the day, say at about two in the afternoon, under charge of one or two police officers, they were conducted to this College, where they received such attention from the authorities as it was possible, under the circumstrances, to exited to them. Yesterday morning the whole party started for Cruces under one official guide; but we saw no milliny or police force accompanying them.

Speaking of be and the dry season, the Panama Herals of the 15th instant says:—

At length we have the dry season, and everybody seems to breathe freer and healthier. The ice is all gone, but with it we congrestitate our inhabitants on the absonce of rain. The rainy season has but rarely been known to last so long as that just closed. The encroachment is made on what are generally locked upon as dry months, has been productive of much sickness in the city, and a consequent increase, small, however, in the mortality. We are much pleased in feeling authorized to state that sickness is rapidly on the decrease, and we confidently trust, in a few days more, our city will enjoy its usual exemption from discase.

The Herald of the 11th Instant gives the following:—

Particulars of the Burning of Three Steambonts at $4. Louis.

[From the St. Louis Republican, Jan. 20.]

Tetween three and four o'clock yesterday afternoon, a fire broke out en board the steamer. Now England, lying at the upper end of the wherf, and, before its progress, and finally burnt to the water's edge.

The steamer firmette, which lay below and alongside, and the New Lucy, which was moored on the outside of the New England, soon after caught fire. The former burned to the water's edge where she lay, and the New Lucy, which was moored on the outside of the New England, soon after caught fire. The former burned to the water's edge where she lay, and the New Lucy, burning locse from her mooringe, foated past the city, and must inevitably have run foul of, and set on fire, a great number of boats at the landing, but for the timely action of Captala Lamethe, of the altons, who, inconcilately on the breaking out of the fire, hastened with his boat to the rescue of those in peril. After handing on the several from the landing, among them the J. M. Clendenin, which boat she towed to Bloody Island, she reached the foot of Locust street, and pulled it to the foot of Blocky Island, thus preventing the destruction of a large number of boats moored below.

After the wreck had been towed out of the way of the other beats at the landing, the ferry boat lillinois took on board the blass our and two other engines, and proceeded in patting out the fire, saving, at most, a portion of the bruthing out the fire, saving, at most, a portion of the bruthing wreck, as at floated past her, was carried out by the current, and partly from the exertions of the members of the St. Louis Fire Company, who took their engine on board the beat, and kept her wet down until out of dancent was injured. The cause of the fire we have below the line, but he does not seem to know anything about it, feather than that he was the first to discover the fire when too l
